FLEAS NOT AS DEADLY AS SOME TREATMENTS!

According to the Los Angeles Times:

"Flea collars and sprays may seem like an easy solution, but they often contain chemicals that can harm your pets, your children and you."

"Many flea and tick formulations are safe when used as directed, but two alarmingly toxic chemicals are found in some products. Called tetrachlorvinphos and propoxur these chemicals are potentially harmful to pets and their humans at the levels found in today's flea collars."

The humans at greatest risk from these chemicals are young children, especially toddlers who spend a lot of time hugging, stroking, and sleeping with their pets."

Tetrachlorvinphos (TCVP) is found in cat and dog flea/tick collars, powders, and sprays. Propoxur is used only in the collars.

Both propoxur and TCVP have the potential to cause cancer in humans. TCVP is an organophosphate – organophosphates are thought to be neurotoxins that can result in childhood problems like learning disabilities and hyperactivity.

Of particular concern is the risk to kids that spend two or more hours a day in close contact with a pet or pets. Per the L.A. Times:

"Many consumers assume that whatever is on store shelves must be 100 percent safe for use around pets and children. But both these chemicals have significant health risks."

Though still allowed for use in flea collars, propoxur has been banned for use in homes for other pests, although the State of Ohio last year asked EPA to approve it for residential use to treat bed bugs. The EPA denied the request in June, citing the unacceptable risk to children."

In 2008 over 44,000 adverse reactions to spot-on products were recorded in USA – everything from mild skin irritation to death – were reported by pet owners, vets and other animal caregivers. This was a significant increase over prior year reported incidents and included the deaths of 600 precious dogs and cats.

Two other 'killer' chemicals found in spot-on products – cyphenothrin and permethrin.

Adverse reactions in both dogs and cats ran the gamut from skin inflammation to GI tract problems to nervous system disorders.

Even the inert (inactive) ingredients contained in the products were found to contribute to toxicity.

If for some reason you find yourself in a situation where you simply can't avoid using a chemical pest preventive, please do your beloved dog or cat a huge favour and follow these tips to reduce the toxic risks to your pet ...

* Be very careful to follow dosing directions on the label, and if your pet is at the low end of a dosage range, step down to the next lowest dosage. Be extremely cautious with small dogs, especially if you own one of the breeds reported to be at high risk for adverse reactions.

* Do not under any circumstances apply dog product to your cat.

* Don't depend exclusively on chemical treatments. Rotate natural preventives with chemical ones.

* Monitor your pet for adverse reactions after you apply a chemical product – especially when using one for the first time.

* Since your animal's liver will be tasked with processing the chemicals that make it into the bloodstream, it can be very beneficial to give your dog or cat a supplement to help detoxify their liver.

Feel free to contact us if you have any concerns or would like to know of any alternatives.

FEEDBACK FROM OUR CUSTOMERS

COMPLETE MIX PUPPY

"I first bought this product over 7 years ago when I got myself 2 adorable doberman puppies. They love the mix with raw chicken mince, yoghurt and free range eggs which they get 3 to 4 times a week.

On the other days they get chicken necks or carcasses or lamb flaps or fresh sardines or anything that's natural and NOT COOKED (no commercial dog food for my tribe). They are getting on now but are still strong, healthy dogs with the shiniest of coats, thanks to the introduction of Complete Mix when they were puppies. I have no hesitation in recommending Complete Mix to anybody who will listen.

Well done on a wonderful, dog-healthy product." N.T.

PET ARK MUSCLE & JOINT SUPPLEMENT

"My 13 year old Silky was getting very lame and stiff in general. Just a few days after commencing this product his overall alertness improved greatly. He is playing again. It was a surprise to see him "killing" an unfortunate toy. This has not happened for some time. He is a very fussy eater but it can be mixed in his food with no worries of rejection. I would recommend that you give this product a go. It works." J. R.

VETS ALL NATURAL COMPLETE MIX ~ ADULT DOG

"We have two five year old beagles, a brother and sister, who have had their diet changed to this complete mix and raw meat. They are loving it and their wellbeing has improved greatly." H.L.

HERBAL EQUINE ~ EASY RIDER

"We use Easy Rider formula for our Thoroughbred gelding who suffers from mild arthritis after an injury while he was racing. It worked wonders! Just a small amount daily in his feed and it has really made a difference, there is no sign of lameness or stiffness. He is a fussy eater but really likes the taste and it's so easy to give in his feed. We have also tried the dried herbal blend but he prefers the liquid formula. So glad to have stumbled across Greenpet a few years ago!" K.G.

GREENPET VITAGEST SUPPLEMENT

"My 10 year old Aussie Terrier has had pancreatitis and is now on insulin for diabetes. She was in a very bad way, lost weight and very weak. I was recommended Vitagest and Dr Goodpet Canine Formula which I started her on along with Greenpet Essentials and a natural diet based on Vets All Natural complete mix. Within weeks she has changed so much; bright eyes, energy, she has put on weight and goes for walks again. Of course the insulin has been important but without the natural products we couldn't have addressed the underlying pancreatic problems. Thanks Greenpet for a great service." J.S
